The gWidgetsWWW package

Abstract

The gWidgetsWWW package ports the gWidgets API for web programming. Dynamic web pages – requiring no knowledge of HTML or JavaScript – can be built directly within R. The package uses the rapache package to serve the pages over the web, or an internal server for personal usage. This talk will illustrate the package through several examples.